

EngiQs

Engineering is fun! Or is it?

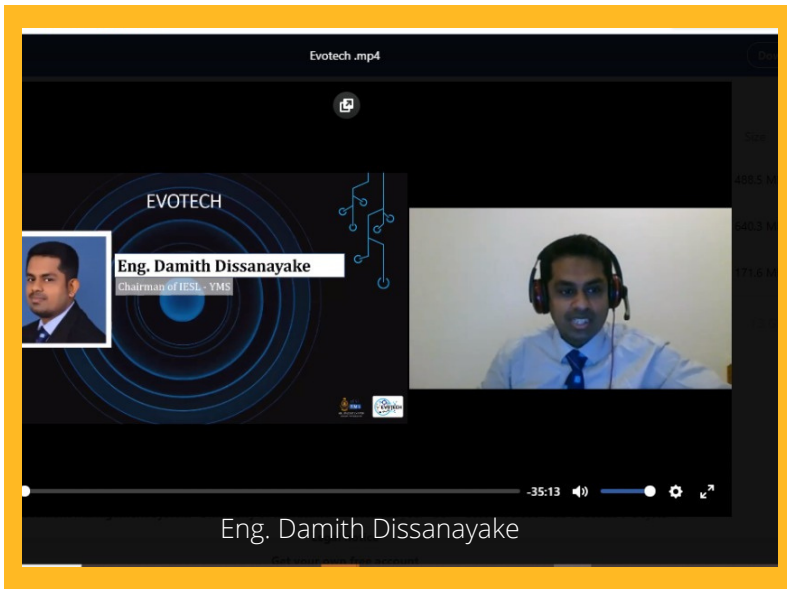

While epitomizing another remarkable milestone to the 10-years excellency of the IESL Student Chapter of University of Moratuwa, the newfangled manoeuvre EngiQs accompanied by the Awarding Ceremony of Evotech were held successfully on 29th of August 2021, virtually through zoom platform with the enthusiastic participation of 200+ participants throughout the event.

The key motive of the session was to make the young undergraduates aware of various opportunities available in the field of engineering, to focus on the questions that the university students have regarding the engineering field and to find solutions to them to the utmost degree. The awarding ceremony which was followed by the EngiQs further inspired these young spirits and contributed to guide them to the unerring trajectory in the engineering field.

The gathered audience was warmly welcomed by Rshan Madhuranga, the Chairman of the IESL Student Chapter of University of Moratuwa. Then a resplendent introductory video was presented to the virtual audience in order to embellish the awareness of the university and the chapter. Followed by this invigorating video clip, the session was handed over to the keynote speaker of the event. Dr. Pujitha Silva, a senior lecturer in University of Moratuwa, Department of Biomedical Engineering, PhD. Mechanical Engineering, B.Eng. Medical Engineering dignified this prestigious occasion as the guest speaker. Through this innovative concept, he was able to convince these passionate undergraduates about various aspects that are currently executing in the engineering field. His thoughts and graceful take on this occasion made the event more informative and the participants were certainly thrilled and excited to hear his enlightening speech.

Afterwards, the event was opened for a Q&A session which further granted the virtual audience to clarify their doubts and discuss their field related issues with the resource person. Then the event was followed by another interactive quiz session with a fun element to it, with the participants and their sprightly contribution escorted the event to a success.

Further enlivening the event, Eng. Damith Dissanayake addressed the gathering while granting an explicit entry to the Awarding ceremony of Evotech'21 which is another extraordinary event organized by the IESL Student Chapter of University of Moratuwa for the betterment of young undergraduates. Evotech'21 is a technical article writing competition which was coordinated by the chapter under four exquisite topics related to the field of engineering. Then the winners under each category were finally revealed clearing out the greatest curiosities ensued within the audience and the judges who contributed to complete this enormous task were duly honoured in the presence of the attended crowd.

The session remarked its gigantic successful ending accompanied with a speech of a contestant who participated in Evotech and she emphasized that the competition was an extremely delightful experience for her to improve capacities and extended her heartfelt gratitude to the chapter for organizing such a prolific event for the young undergraduates to showcase their unique capabilities.
